Explore Exford

Exford is in the heart of Exmoor, on the young River Exe. This delightful village still has the essence of a true English village. A large village green is central to the village, still with its shops, Post office, cafes, hotels and church on the hill. The village has been home to the Devon and Somerset Staghounds since 1875. It is common to see the hunt gathering with well-presented grooms and horses surrounded by hounds, ready to gallop into the country. Exmoor holds to the traditions of horse-riding, shooting and fishing and Exford makes the perfect centre for enjoying these outdoor pursuits.

An enjoyable walk can start from the bus stop by the green, passing through the car park to follow beside the River Exe. At Court Farm turn left up the track. There are footpaths that then go to the left to Exford church with its medieval cross and beautiful screen. It then continues behind the church to join another footpath back to the village. This walk can be extended to a 4 mile walk via Higher Combe, Stone Cross and Prescott Down.
